

Clever Fox

Once upon a time, there lived a crocodile and a fox who were enemies of each other.

One day the fox came to drink water in the river, and looked here and there to see if there was any danger.

When he entered into the water the crocodile caught hold of his leg and the fox got scared.

But the fox reacted as if he is not afraid and said

Oh! crocodile you caught hold of a stick instead of my leg.

Crocodile released his leg after thinking that he has really caught a stick, and taking advantage of this, the fox ran away.

Crocodile went to see his friend, mongoose and told everything.

Don't worry, I will cheat him some how and I will get the fox here.
You lay on this bank as if you have died.
Once he come too close you can kill him.

My dear friend,
Let's go to walk around the bank of the river

No I don't want to go there because if I do so the crocodile will kill me.

Oh! that crocodile
he died yesterday,
come and see for your self.

The fox came with the mongoose to see whether he is alive or not.

What if mongoose is lying ? I will have to test him.

After analysing everything, the fox said...

The crocodile is alive.

No no he is dead.

But I heard from my mother, that dead crocodiles makes "hu-hu" sound.

The crocodile was listening everything

If I don't make that sound then fox may run away

The cleaver fox ran away.

Moral: In this material world one has to use his intelligence.

www.iskcondesiretree.com